

E-Resource Policy

- Hakibbutzim College of Education Library offers its authorized users (students, faculty members, and administrative staff) access to a variety of electronic resources in subject areas relevant to their studies and research.
- All rights to the databases and the information contained therein are owned by the College and/or such content providers, including the copyright which includes, among other things, the exclusive right to create copies (including printing), to publish and/or to make a derivative work.
- All users must ensure that their activity does not infringe on the said copyrights. Only personal, reasonable, and fair use of the electronic resources for the purposes of study and research within the framework of the activities at the college, is permitted.
- Please note that some of the electronic resources contain additional unique provisions regarding rights and permitted use, in which case the same provisions apply and must be followed.

- Electronic resources (e-books, e-journals, video recordings, etc.,) supplied by publishers and database providers can be accessed via proxy server either on or off campus after authentication of user's credentials. It is forbidden to provide the login details to anyone else, and it is forbidden to allow anyone else to use the electronic resources.
- Copyright infringement may expose the user to personal claims. Any violation of this policy will be considered a severe disciplinary offense.
